Civic Elections

Are Postponed

Feelings were running high last week-end when it was found that through their neglect to register last fall, only a very few of the tenants and relatives of ratepayers were on the Voters' List for the election of mayor and councillors.

A special meeting of the Council was held Friday evening, when it was decided to postpone the election for mayor and councillors in view of the fact that the registration had been so small, and to give the townspeople another opportunity to register and get their names on the Voters' List.

As a result of the postponement, it will be necessary to nominate the candidates again.

From Wednesday February 15th, until Wednesday, February 22nd, the book will be open for the registration of all tenants, and the relatives of ratepayers.

The list will be posted, and one week will be given to register any objection, and the Council will meet Monday, March 6th to hear any such objection.

The nomination meeting will be held Tuesday, March 14th and the election held the Tuesday following.

Those entitled to be registered on the Voters' List are: "the wife, husband, father and mother, and every son and daughter of any person

Knox Church Anniversary.

The anniversary service was held at Knox United Church on Sunday evening, when Rev T. T. Faichney, of Calgary occupied the pulpit. He took for his topic, "The Oxford Group movement." Special music was rendered by the choir, and Miss M. Staustead rendered, "The Holy City."

Monday evening the anniversary supper was served by the Ladies Aid, and a large number sat down to a splendid repast.

After supper Rev. T. T. Faichney gave an address which was much appreciated by the large audience. A short program was also given. Mr. Jack Robertson rendered songs and Mr. J. Boorman and Master Arthur Boorman giving a violin duet.

School Board Organizes.

The first regular meeting of the school board was held on Monday afternoon with all members present. Mr. J. V. Berscht, Mr. J. W. Halton and Dr. W. G. Evans were sworn in as the newly-elected members.

Mr. J. V. Berscht was elected chairman and Mr. M. B. Clemens appointed secretary.

whose name appears on the Assessment Roll; if he or she is a resident with said person, or assists him in a business for which he is taxable; if he or she has attained the full age of 21 years."

"All tenants who have rented an assessed parcel for a period of 12 months immediately preceding the last day of August 1932."

LOCAL & GENERAL

Let us remind you of the Saturday Night Dances, 25c everybody. The Bellamy Orchestra.

Miss Ella Stauffer, after undergoing an operation for appendicitis in the Hospital, is making a fine recovery and is staying at the farm home of her brother, Ira C. Stauffer.

Mr. J. H. Lowrie left Sunday for Vancouver on account of his health. He has been given three months' sick leave, and Mr. Vickerson, of Calgary will take his position at the bank during his absence.

Don't forget that there will be another big dance at the Community Hall on Friday, February 24th. The Bellamy Orchestra. Admission, Gent 50-cents, ladies free. Supper included.

The nurses at the Didsbury Hospital will give their annual dance on Wednesday March 1st. There will be novelty dances and prizes given. The proceeds will go towards the purchase of a new electric sterilizer.

Mrs. Ben Robinson is visiting her mother, Mrs. G. Senneth. Mr. Robinson, who has been manager of the Royal Bank at High Prairie, has been appointed manager of the Royal Bank at Bowden.

A special double program at the Opera House tonight (Thursday) at 8.30. "The Silver Lining," a romance of modern youth, followed by Zane Grey's great western epic, "Riders of the Purple Sage." A heart-stopping story of the cattle ranges, with whirlwind action, and plenty of breathless adventures!

The wildest adventures ever filmed! "Explorers of the World," at the Opera House next Monday only. In the jungles and unexplored wastes of the earth, where foot of civilized man had never trod, these six daring and famous adventurers defied death so you could see it all! Don't miss this magnificent spectacle.

Dr. H. C. Liesemer will speak at the next meeting of the Alhright Brotherhood of the Zion Evangelical Church, which will be held Tuesday evening February 21st at 8 o'clock. His subject will be "The Message of the Great Pyramid." This will be an open meeting to which the public is invited. A free will offering will be taken. Arrangements are under way to procure Beckner's Orchestra, of Carleton for the occasion.

As will be seen in our advertising columns, the annual meeting of the Mountain View Co-operative Livestock Marketing Association will be held at Olds on Friday, Feb. 24th. Besides the regular business, Mr. M. Baker, of Winnipeg, who represents the Industrial Development Council of Canadian Meat Packers, will address the meeting. All livestock shippers, whether members of the Association or not, are invited to attend and hear Mr. Baker, who will have a real message for the farmers.

WEEKLY JOKE

An Indian had returned for the third time to buy a half-dozen bottles of cough syrup:

Druggist: "Someone sick at your house?"

Indian: "No sick."

Druggist: "Then what on earth is all this cough syrup for?"

Indian: "M-m-me likeum on pancakes."

Explorers of the World.

"Explorers of the World," which is showing at the Opera House for one performance only on Monday evening next, is a picture that will thrill everybody—man, woman, boy and girl. It moves so fast that it takes your breath away! So exciting it almost makes your heart stop as it sweeps you from thrill to thrill! It is all real, made by such explorers as Harold McCracken, of the Stoll-McCracken Siberian Arctic Expedition; James L. Clark and his African Expedition for the American Museum of Natural History; Laurence M. Gould, second-in-command of the Byrd Antarctic Expedition; Harold Noice, of the Tariano Indian Expedition to the Brazilian Jungles; Gene Lamb, of the Photo-Scientific Expedition to Borneo, India, China and Tibet; Lt.-Col. J. R. Slogrove, of the Imperial Trans-Arctic Expedition. These men bring to the screen the strangest sights ever beheld by Man! Scenes that outstretch the imagination!

Reduces Examination Fees.

Reduction of $1.00 in fees for High School and matriculation examinations, is announced by the Provincial Department of Education.

Hail Insurance.

Only 492 claims for hail insurance were received with respect to the 1932 season by the municipal hail board, according to its annual report just issued. Total acreage covered by the board in 1932 was 452,592 acres under 3,228 applications, an increase of over 50 per cent from 1931. Hail fell on 40 different days in the season.

Educational Record.

Alberta's educational record has improved in a very gratifying manner during the past three years, according to the annual report of the provincial Department of Education. The particular feature is in increase in High School enrollment during the past three years of 8,814, the total figure for 1932 being 23,247. Total Public and High School enrollment was 170,795. New records were made in the number of school districts operating 160 days or more, and in the average length of school year, which was 195 days. The latter is a record for all time.

Cream Supply To Creameries.

The creameries of Alberta received 910,459 lbs. of butterfat in cream during the four week ending January 28th, 1933, a decrease of 7,776-lbs. or 8 per cent under receipts of the corresponding weeks of 1932, and an increase of 90,286-lbs. or 11.8 per cent over receipts of January 1931.

Discontinue Notifying On Hog Grades

The Federal Department of Agriculture is discontinuing the practice of notifying the farmers individually of the grading of the hogs which they have sold. Hereafter, shippers are expected to make settlement with farmers on the basis of the official grades, and neglect to do so will constitute an infraction of the hog-grading regulations.

The official grading of all hogs shipped will be sent to the shipper, and can be seen at his office.

Realization Of Hopes

Depends On Making Best Use Of Present Opportunities

The story is told of Alexander the Great, that, when he was leaving Macedonia, he made so many lavish presents to his friends that one of them asked him, "But what are you leaving yourself?" The reply was, "My hopes."

So full was the mind of the mighty conqueror of the confidence and faith that yet to be brought under his sway and the treasures yet to be gathered into his stores, that all the riches already won were as nothing in comparison.

Man's greatest assets are his hopes. This is true especially of those who stand at the beginning of life and look eagerly forward to the good things which the coming years may bring. But it is well to remember that the realization of our hopes for the future depends on our making the best use of the opportunities of the present. Hopes are assets of the utmost value, but they will become "frozen assets" unless we do our part to give them life.

May Waive Imposition

Government To Consider Anew the Exchange Dump Duty

Provided that Canadian importers can arrange with British manufacturers to have the price of British goods increased to the desired amount, the Canadian government will waive the imposition of the exchange dump duty.

This statement of policy is implicit in a letter sent by the department of national revenue to a Canadian importer. A letter, continuing by the national revenue department, reveals the change.

The vital paragraph in the letter reads:

"The requirements of the order-in-council meaning the sterling exchange and imposed shortly after the British abandoned the gold standard are coupled with when the importer remits to the exporter in payment for the imported goods an amount equal to $3.40 for each pound sterling of the fair market value."

Even this ruling is believed to be merely of a temporary nature. The whole matter of the dump duty is to be considered anew in the next few weeks and an amendment clearing up existing confusion will be introduced when parliament reassembles. Precisely what policy will be decided upon cannot yet be forecast.

Royal Bank of Canada Presents Strong Statement

CASH ASSETS 164 MILLION DOLLARS

"Canada has maintained her credit unimpaired."

Sir Herbert Holt deals vigorously with railway and other national problems — Emphasizes need for Government Economy — Imperial Conference — Canad. an Business Conditions — International Outlook.

Mr. M. W. Wilson reports on satisfactory year's operations—Central Bank Discussed—Measures needed for business recovery.

The Sixty-fourth Annual Meeting of The Royal Bank of Canada marked the close of a very successful year. The Statement submitted showed the Bank to be in a very strong liquid position. Of the Total Assets of $765,512,920 the Liquid Assets amounted to as much as $255,929,920 and were equal to 52.8% of all liabilities to the Public. An outstanding feature of the Liquid Assets was the large holding of Cash Assets, which reached a total of One Hundred and Sixty-Four Millions.

The Annual Meeting brought together a large number of shareholders and was marked by interesting and instructive addresses by Sir Herbert Holt, the President, and Morris W. Wilson, Vice-President and General Manager.

Vigorous comment and suggestions as regards several of the outstanding domestic problems of Canada, and an able summary of the world economic situation and the prospects ahead, a strong plea for the amalgamation of the two Canadian railroads, as the only manner in which the grave Canadian railway situation can be solved; Intervention by the provincial governments to conserve Canadian natural resources, and to prevent the collapse of the vitally important newsprint industry, if the present strong efforts being made to secure co-operation are not successful, and a condemnation of excessive governmental expenditure, featured the address of the president.

Sir Herbert said in part:

"The power of resistance which this country has shown during the past year for advances in the cause of reconstruction. With no financial assistance from other countries, and with a small amount of re-financing, which was arranged on a strictly business basis, we have succeeded in terms of gold limited to a very moderate percentage, and with none of the reluctance in foreign exchange of international trade which have been found inevitable in so many cases. Canada has lived up to the letter of her contracts and maintained her credit unimpaired. In doing so she has followed the traditions of the British Empire as a whole. It is no exaggeration to say that the stability and soundness of the Empire's banking institutions have played an important part in the creation of this good record."

Railway Problem.

In referring to the report of the Royal Commission on Transportation, Sir Herbert expressed the opinion that the railway systems to effect mutual economies will not prove drastic enough to cut down in any adequate degree the annual deficits of the government railways, and expressed the conviction that the railway lay in complete amalgamation. He felt that a monopoly was groundless and that under proper safeguards amalgamation would result in a co-ordinated transportation system adequate to the needs of the country and conducted at a minimum of expense.

Government Expenses.

"For many years, Government expenditure has been on an extensive scale. Extravagance has characterized the budgets of national, provincial and municipal governments. Throughout the country there is a general demand that budgets be balanced and every effort made to lighten the heavy burden imposed upon the people by reducing the unduly heavy taxation."

There is a growing duplication of government in Canada which leads to the excessive cost of administration. We must seriously consider whether this country can afford to maintain as many as nine Provincial Governments, together with the Federal Government, each with an elaborate organization. The whole population of Great Britain is governed by a single Parliament which finds time to legislate, not only for all internal matters, but also for those which concern the Empire as a whole.

Reviewing the Imperial Conference of Ottawa, Sir Herbert said that the material achievements attained were a triumph for Mr. Bennett and his Government.

In concluding Sir Herbert said that Canada was fully capable of meeting any further tests which might be imposed, but that present indications pointed to the initiation of a recovery in 1933 if a reasonable degree of international common sense and co-operation could be secured.

Gen. Manager's Address.

Sir M. W. Wilson, Vice-President and General Manager, in referring to the position of the bank, said that an outstanding feature of the Statement was that cash and cash balances totaled $164,630,000, or over 24% of public liabilities. Total liquid assets being equal to over 52.8% of public liabilities. He mentioned the notable improvement in the feature of the Statement was that which took place during the year, and said: "Canada again proved its capacity for government bonds required by our public bodies. During the year the average yield on Dominion Government long-term bonds declined from 5.2% to about 4.8%." This represents a most satisfactory improvement in the cost of capital. He said that should be carried further as additional capital seeks investment in the country.

Pointing out that the banking system of Canada adequately serves the needs of the country, he said that a Central Bank could perform few services not available under the present system, and would not in any way do away with the necessity of requiring adequate security for banking accommodation, nor permit banks to undertake long-term transactions instead of short-term advances for the productive purposes. Recognizing that the question of central banking is not to be disposed of summarily, he said: "I should hope that Parliament is called upon to deal with the matter, the Government will first have the project examined thoroughly by a body of experts, including several from other countries who have had experience in the practical working of a central bank. I confess to a certain amount of skepticism as to the financial machinery in a time like this."

Price Restoration.

"On previous occasions we have stressed the importance of restoring the world price structure to approximately 1924-25 levels. I remarked last year that such action was essential if the present deflation is to be liquidated in an orderly manner, pointing out that deflation had been carried to extremes and that anti-deflation measures were urgently required. Unfortunately, the price levels continued to fall until the end of June, and the rise which commenced in July has since been cancelled. The decline for the year, as indicated by the United States Bureau of Labor Index, will be apparently about 7 per cent, which compares with 13 per cent in 1931 and 17 per cent in 1930. The best that can be said is that the rate of fall was appreciably less than in previous years."

The vital necessity for increasing prices is now commonly recognized, but the difficulty of countering deflation increases as the depression continues. We must hope that the forthcoming Economic Conference will point the way to constructive action in this respect.

There is little inclination to indulge in the heavy burden imposed by the future. As Sir Herbert stated, there are indications of a gradual increase in stability throughout the world. This is particularly true of Europe, where conditions were anything but favorable a year ago. In the United States, the financial crisis is apparently over, and a return of greater confidence is in evidence. Many problems of business readjustment remain to be met, both abroad and in Canada, but real progress toward recovery has been made, and the prospect of further improvement in the coming year is much more hopeful than it was a year ago.

"I have full confidence in the character of our people and of our country. Sir Herbert said, emphasizing the importance of the problems that must be dealt with. I look to the future with increasing optimism."

Halfway there, disaster over-whelmed them, sudden and stunning. It came from the air, in the shape of a pair of well-mounted lions. Flapping heavily out of the west, the birds dropped with a loud splash not ten feet away from the two men.

At the splash Alan heard a muffled oath over in the dunes; then a rustling movement, as though the bandits had nervously jumped for their guns; then silence. And then a voice from the twilight among the reeds:

"Nothin'. Jus' a pair of divers plumped down."

The alarm would have blown over if the lions had swum off. But the birds, conspicuous and indolent, stayed where they were, showing no intention of moving away. As the female started preening herself, the male turned his eye suspiciously at the two strange objects sticking above the water.

What startled it Alan never knew. Bill did not move; he himself did not bat an eyelash. But in that jumpy faint silence the male suddenly threw open its beak and sent a raucous monosyllabic shriek, as though some animal had seized it by the neck.

Instantly its mate joined in. The sitting, cat-splitting discord set muskrats diving out of their houses and flushed every waterfowl in the lake a hundred yards distant. With a last frantic peck the lions faxed over the water, finally managed to take wing, and flapped heavily away.

But the damage had been done beyond retrieve. All that hour and a half of careful stalking, all the great caution and pains of slipping unnoticed upon the bandits, had been set at naught by the crazy shriek of a crazy lion.

Over in the murky twilight of the dunes there was a commotion, sharp orders, the click of rifle bolts. At the edge of the lake a gun croak-achek, a rump of flame reached out, a bullet rattled off the water.

It was a shrewd maneuver from the bandits, a tentative shot to draw the fire of their stalkers and discover where they were. Alan was quick-witted enough to see their motive and to lie low; but Bill jerked his rifle against his cheek and shot point-blank at the spot of fire.

When Your Daughter Comes to Womanhood

Give Her Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Most girls in their teens need a tonic and regulator. Give your daughter Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for the next few months. Teach her how to guard her health at this critical time. When she is a happy, healthy wife and mother she will thank you.

W. N. U. 1978

A cry of pain went up. His bullet had scored. But the shot gave away their hiding. With all hope gone now of getting the drop, Alan scrambled behind cover of a muskrat house, fairly dragging Bill after him.

Half a dozen rifles exploded in the dunes. Alan thrust his rifle over the top of the house and emptied it at the flashes. A bullet from a Savage, a sharp-cracking deadly Savage, hit his weapon, smashed the mechanism, numbed his hand, and drove jagged fiery bits of steel into his fingers.

For several minutes the bullets of the bandits beat a thudding tattoo against the mud mound. As best they could Alan and Bill lifted their belt-guns over the top of their shelter, and fired back. They heard no more yelps of pain. They were shooting wildly, aimlessly. Realizing this, believing the bandits had crept into the run and were sheltered by its banks, Alan stopped shooting and checked Bill.

Yonder in the reeds the fire died away suddenly. A silence fell. A minute lengthened into two, three, four. Alan heard, or thought he heard a faint rustling, a faint gurgling of water. He listened intently, but did not hear it again.

With his plans all shattered, with the twilight steadily deepening, he was torn with desperation. If he and Bill moved, it was sheer suicide. If they crouched much longer where they were, the bandits would certainly slip away from them in the coming dark.

As he fought to think of a plan that would break this deadlock, he heard a long whistle, a clear shrill whistle from Larry's direction. It was Larry signaling.

He sprang up. "Bill! They've backed away. They've slipped us, they're breaking for the lake! Larry's alone. We've got to help Larry!"

They splashed out of the pond and into the dunes. In a frantic effort to reach the lake edge, The marsh reeds clutched at them, tripped them, wrapped around their legs. Savagely they tore their way through to get into the clear in time to help Larry stop those bandits.

As he swung his clubbed rifle, smashing a pathway in front of him, Alan heard a lone gun croak-achek on the lake, and heard the snarl of half a dozen repeating weapons answering it like an echo. They drowned, they overwhelmed it. . . . The lone gun did not speak again.

It seemed hours to him that he fought and tore through the dunes to reach the open and help a comrade who was standing up against six rifles. Before he broke through to the clear, the uneven battle had ended. As he burst out to the lake edge, he had a glimpse of the police force drifting helplessly out in the middle, and across at the far side he saw two long blurred objects just entering the deep-water channel.

Numbed and dazed at those six men escaping, there was a moment when Alan could only realize that his patrol had failed. That those criminals had vanished into the twilight, and were lost in this watery wilderness, with pursuit utterly hopeless now.

In the next moment he heard a sound, a sound like a growling voice calling his name. It drew his eyes to the drifting police craft. "What was it doing out there? Like a fish he understood what Larry had done. When the bandits started across the lake to escape, Larry must have seen he could never stop them in the semi-darkness except at point-blank range.

In the police canoe he must have come fearlessly out at them, alone. This first deadly volley had got him. That growling voice was Larry's.

Bill came bursting through to the clear. Alan whirled on him: "Bill! They got Larry. He's wounded. Hard hit. Here . . ."

His eye ran out into breast-deep water and struck out powerfully for the drifting canoe.

By a provident mercy he reached it in time. With half a dozen holes spouting water into it, the craft was flung, tilting, about to overturn. Larry lay at the bottom of it, writhing in pain.

By heroic struggles, swimming, pushing a deadweight ahead of him, Alan got the craft into shoal water, put his hand under its keel then, and kept it afloat.

He dragged it to the bank just as

Bill came splashing around the lake edge to join him.

"Alan! What happened? Where'd they go?"

"They got away. They're gone—gone. Forget it. Help me, Bill—with Larry."

Together they bent over their bleeding, stricken comrade, and together they lifted him tenderly ashore.

CHAPTER V. The Broken Sword

By the light of an electric torch Alan cut away Larry's clothing and examined his wounds. Larry had been shot twice, and both wounds were fearsome. One bullet, a ricocheting slug, had struck him squarely in the knee, cruelly shattering the bones. The second had pierced his chest high up, just beneath the shoulder, and had passed entirely through his body. Stealing himself to the ordeal, Alan worked desperately with tourniquets and tiny medicines, but still he had stanch the bleeding. Before he finished, Larry was rousing faintly from the bullet shock.

Half an hour later, when Alan had done all he could and Bill had managed to patch the canoe, they turned their faces toward home, in defeat, in sorrow, in an anguish over Larry.

Alan picked him up in his arms, gently and tenderly, trying to keep that fatal bleeding from starting afresh. With Bill following him, staggering under the weight of canoe, guns and pack, he headed back toward the Alooska branch.

For an hour they stumbled along, plowed through bog and mire, groped through the lat impeding dunes. It was a hour of darkness, of blind heroic struggle. But they reached the Alooska branch at last and set the canoe to water, and making Larry a soft bed of flags, they began their sorrowful journey.

They Refused to Stop or Rest.

With no sleep in more than fifty hours, with all that long hard chase behind them, they were on the verge of exhaustion, and could make no time. Their hands were raw with blisters from paddle work; their faces were bleeding from insect bites; their whole bodies ached intolerably. They were muddled, wet, gnat with hunger, heart-sick from the disgraceful failure of their patrol. But they refused to stop or rest; Larry had to be taken home quickly; the hours were a matter of life or death to him. With dogged courage they drove themselves on.

With his spirits at so low an ebb, the picture of that far pack in Dave MacMillan's shed rose before Alan's eyes, and he foresaw the inevitable consequences to flow from that discovery. In his exhaustion, with all the buoyancy of hope drained out of him, he no longer could feel that somehow he was going to get Joyce's father off lightly. He must take Dave into Endurance and enter charge; and now, with these bandits es-

Soured on the World?—That's Liver

Wake up your Liver

Many people who feel sour, sluggish and generally unwell, make the mistake of taking too much food, and eating too much of the wrong kind. The liver is the organ of cleansing, and if it is not kept in good working order, the whole system suffers. What you need is to wake up your liver. Buy a bottle of Doan's and take two or three doses. It will do the work of a dozen laxatives. Doan's is the only liver medicine that is safe and sure. It is the only one that is made in the U.S.A. and is the only one that is sold in every drug store.

Get Rid of That SORE THROAT!

Any little soreness in the throat grows rapidly worse if neglected. Crush some tablets of Aspirin in some water, and gargle at once. This gives you instant relief, and reduces danger from infection. One good gargle and you can feel safe. If all soreness is not gone promptly, repeat. There's usually a cold with the sore throat, so take two tablets to throw off your cold, headache, stiffness or other cold symptoms. Aspirin relieves neuralgia, neuritis, too. Use it freely; it does not hurt the heart.

"I the Lord will hold thy right hand, saying unto thee, 'Fear not, I will help thee.'"—Isaiah 41:13.

"Show Thy marvellous loving kindness, O Thou that savest by Thy right hand all who put their trust in Thee!"—Psalms 117:7.

If we could see beyond today,
As God can see,
If all the clouds should roll away,
The shadows flee,
O our present griefs we would not fret,
Each sorrow we would soon forget.
For many joys are waiting yet
For you and me.

Do not look forward to what may happen tomorrow; the same everlasting Father who cares for you today will take care of you tomorrow and every day. Either He will shield you from suffering, or He will give you untiring strength to bear it. Be at peace then, and put aside all anxious thoughts and imaginations.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaels

THE ASTROLOGER

He deals with whirling stars and suns
And endless realms of space,
With that unresting tide that runs
In the ebb and flow of fate.
The universe before him spins
In ordered, vast array
Until man's little strifes and sins
Unheeded, drop away.
He dwells afar, so rapid is he
In tracing that design
Which flows through all infinity,
Unhurried and unguessed
And in his wisdom he can glean
God's purpose in the whole,
Which you and I have only seen
Within the human soul.

Then and Now

Changed Attitude Of Americans Towards the War Debt

When, in 1918, on the invitation of our Foreign Office and an American committee, Sir George Adam Smith went to the United States to speak on the Moral Aims of the Allies, he had to address in April, along with Mr. Tatt, a meeting in Cleveland, Ohio, called by the Chamber of Commerce, and attended by over 700 men of business and the professions. Mr. Tatt, who was not then in office, said in the course of his address: "I hear that our Government is lending very large sums of money to Great Britain. As an American citizen I trust that we shall never ask back a single cent of it. Because for three years Great Britain has been standing between us and the monster." This was loudly cheered by the whole meeting. British Weekly.

BERGEN-NICHE VALLEY

Bill McCurrough, of Three Hills was out after poles last week.

Mr. Boles, of Sunnyslope has made several trips into the Valley this winter.

Mrs. Gamble has been a patient in the Didsbury Hospital for five weeks.

Mr. Abe Dyck and sons are getting out a wood permit west of here. The roads are not what would be called good since the snow.

The oil drill can be heard across the river. They hope to tap Africa or obtain a black substance called "crude oil" by springtime or sooner.

Dave Allen has sold his homestead and will soon be on the high seas headed for Scotland. Had it been for a free state in Ireland we could understand.

Rev. S. W. Gamble, oldtimer of Didsbury and the west of Olds, died at Long Beach, California last December. He was 80 years old and lived to see his "Thirteen Month Calendar" adopted by some of the states and large business firms of the U.S.A. He was the author of "Sunday, the True Sabbath," "Sabbatarianism," and "The Thirteen Month Calendar."
